BI2 Technologies Awarded Contract To Implement Statewide Facial Recognition System to Identify Inmates, Suspects and Gang Members
Systems to be implemented in forty-two law enforcement agencies across Massachusetts

(Plymouth, MA) – Biometric Intelligence & Identification Technologies (BI² Technologies) of Plymouth, Massachusetts announced today that they have been awarded a contract by the Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association (MSA) to provide a new facial recognition system for the all fourteen (14) County Sheriff's Departments and twenty-eight (28) individual police Departments across the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

BI² Technologies' will be implementing the biometric industry's leading provider of facial recognition technologies, Animetrics, Inc., of Conway, New Hampshire. Animetrics, Inc. is the de facto world leader in 2D-3D Face technologies with patented 2D-3D face recognition technologies. Animetrics' vision is highly accurate identification of natural and uncontrolled face images acquired from all camera forms.

Sean G. Mullin, president and CEO of BI2 Technologies said, "The Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association is setting the standard for the nation by implementing facial recognition throughout the state and by ensuring that the technology is being made available to local police departments as well as county Sheriffs. This is the kind of cooperative effort, that effectively shares biometric identification capabilities statewide, that all law enforcement needs."

James F. Walsh, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association said, "This project represents the expansion of the vision of Essex County Sheriff Frank G. Cousins, Jr. Sheriff Cousins' leadership and commitment to improve not only our Sheriffs' capabilities, but all law enforcement in the Commonwealth's ability, to use and share data and facial recognition biometric technology to better protect the citizens of Massachusetts."

Paul Schuepp, president of Animetrics said, "With our unique technologies and proven performance within the U.S. Department of Defense, Animetrics' has created the next generation face identification capability using complete and natural information of the face in a three dimensional view. Animetrics matching algorithms uses their 2D and 3D face biometric templates that are unsurpassed in the world and address precisely the issues faced in the intensely challenging environmental conditions in which the Commonwealth's Sheriffs, police departments, jails and houses of corrections operate."

- more -

Sean G. Mullin continued, "As the nation's leading provider of iris biometric technology to state and local law enforcement, this award and first of-its-kind project in the nation represents the next step in the enhancement in our suite of public safety biometric solutions. Our solutions are multi-modal. Each of the leading biometric technologies – fingerprint, iris and facial – have specific strengths and weaknesses. We believe the ability to harness and combine the strength of each biometric ensures that law enforcement has the accurate and timely information they need to better protect the public. That's why we developed MORIS™ (Mobile Offender Recognition and Identification System) and that's why the response from the federal, state and local law enforcement community to our hand-held, wireless, multi-modal biometric capability on the iPhone has been so overwhelming."

BI2 Technologies' iris biometric technologies are already being used by state and local law enforcement agencies in forty-seven states. Mullin continued, "Our secure and encrypted, web-based biometric network currently enables law enforcement agencies to positively identify offenders, suspects, gang members, convicted sex offenders and illegal aliens in seconds. With the combination of iris, facial and fingerprint biometric capabilities - on an exceptional platform like the iPhone - law enforcement finally has the capabilities that, until now, has been the stuff of science fiction novels, futuristic movies and entertaining but unrealistic prime-time crime shows. MORIS™ and the Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association are about to change all that."

Mullin concluded, "We expect to have the new facial recognition system implemented across the Commonwealth by the fall of 2010. In the near term, we will be implementing the first systems – including MORIS™ and Animetrics' over the next two weeks."

Hi Sean:

I've read the press release. I kindly ask if I could request just a few changes, please:

- (1) Could we delete the Italic "Systems to be implemented...." line under the main headline? I want MSA and BI2 to have some "wiggle-room" just in case a Sheriff or two opts not to participate in the Program.
- (2) In para 1, 4th line, could we add "up to" in front of "twenty-eight (28) individual police departments? Same concern.
- (3) Re: My quote in para 4: I'm ok w/ it but could we delete Frank's name and amend the line to read "...expansion of the Essex County Sheriff Department's leadership and commitment...." etc. It is a re-election year and its' approaching the time on the calendar when OCPF can get itchy about incumbents using official business releases as forms of campaigning.
- (4) MORIS? I'm ok w/ BI 2's reference to MORIS on p.2 in the top paragraph. But, we have not yet formally executed a Contract amendment to proceed with purchase of the hand-held units; so, should the press release mention MORIS in the last lines of para 2 and 3 on page 2? If you think this can be interpreted to mean something other than a reference to the hand-Units, then I would be OK with leaving as is.

Thank you, have a great Weekend.
