Hello Emiliano,

We were the host site for this training. The agency that ran the training would have those materials.

Best,

Emiliano,

I spoke with Officer Shore. He does not recall how long the free trial was, once he received the email to sign up for a paid subscription he deleted the email and the app.

He stated he did not utilize the app for any of the investigations he was working on.

We do not have records responsive to the request below.

Regards,

Lt. Marie Cleary

Hello,

Officer Shore attended a training class for online investigations and during the class the instructor mentioned several applications/products that could be helpful for police investigations.

Officer Shore signed up for a free trial for Clearview. After the free trial expired they sent an offer for a paid subscription which Officer Shore did not respond to.

Please let me know if you have additional questions.

Hello Marie,

Thank you for these emails. It appears that the Police Department is using Clearview. There is correspondence between Brian Shore and Clearview AI that shows that you received the software and an activation link. Can you please provide us more details?

Thank you.

Mr. Falcon-Morano,

I have called your office and left a voicemail message with you to clarify a question I have regarding the records request.

The Wellesley Police Department has not purchased any facial recognition equipment or software. There are many different members of the department that may have received sales emails from companies that sell facial recognition products.

Could you provide me with the names of the companies you would like us to include in the email search? A preliminary search for the terms "facial recognition" has resulted in nearly 3,000 potentially responsive emails.

It will take a significant amount of time to go through all of these potentially responsive emails individually to determine which emails simply contain law enforcement or technology related articles with the phrase "facial recognition", sales emails regarding training for "facial recognition" etc. or which emails were sent from companies that sell these types of products.

Any clarification you could provide that will assist us in responding to your request would be greatly appreciated.

Regards,

Lt. Marie Cleary
