outside the northwest edge of where we searched. GPS tracks indicate SERT was within approximately 160 feet of the subject who was located just inside the focus area of .5 mile radius and approximately 880 feet off the power lines. Tpr Skorupa went out to map the location and help extract the body. He stated they responded to the location by walking down the power lines into the gully and entering the left side of the woods on the snowmobile trail. On Day 1, we had a group by the entrance to the snowmobile trail but turned them around due to poor weather and on Day 2 we only had a small group in that area because we were spread out in other areas. The gully/trail became our flank because of the tough terrain and lack of footprints through the snow.
